Invited Presentation - Mentorships

John Mertic (Linux Foundation)

Invited Presentation -
TBD - will do at a future time

Steven Winslow (Linux Foundation)

Why mentorships?

- For students, it helps them learn real-world software development skills and time management
- For projects, it brings in new contributors that become maintainers with codebase experience.
- For members, it highlights up and coming talent to hire.

We generally see LF projects leverage these platforms

 LFX | Mentorship

 Google Summer of Code

What is LFX Mentorships?

Part of the LFX platform, it provides tooling for attracting mentees and supporting mentorships.

Project providing the mentorship provides funding, but there is the opportunity to crowdfund to support mentorships.

Three mentorship terms, spring, summer, and fall, gives the project flexibility on timelines

The screenshot displays the LFX Mentorships website interface. At the top, there are navigation links for 'All Linux Foundation', 'LFX Tools', 'Tools', 'Participate', 'About', and 'Resources'. Below this is a header with 'Enroll a Program', 'Become a Mentor', 'Become a Mentee', and 'Get Help'. The main content is divided into three sections: 'Mentorships', 'Mentors', and 'Mentees'. Each section contains a grid of cards. The 'Mentorships' section shows three project cards: 'CNCF - Tremor: Google Cloud Connector', 'CNCF - TiKV: Coprocessor plugin', and 'CNCF - Thanos: Vertical Block Sharding'. Each card includes a description, a progress bar for 'cli best practices', 'Required Skills', and 'Terms'. The 'Mentors' section shows three mentor profiles: 'Abhik Chakraborty', 'Abhishek Naidu', and 'Abhishek Kumar'. Each profile includes a bio, 'Skills', 'Current Mentees', and 'Graduated Mentees'. The 'Mentees' section shows three mentee profiles: 'Aayush Gupta', 'Abhik Chakraborty', and 'Abhimanyu Shekhawat'. Each profile includes a bio, 'Skills', 'Status', and 'Mentors'.

Google Summer of Code

Summer program sponsored by Google for the past 16 years.

Open source organizations can apply to be a mentoring organization, and Google approves and sets a number of mentorships for each organization.

No cost to project, and provides a small stipend ($400 USD) per mentorship.

Deadline to apply is February 19, 2021

16,000+ STUDENTS, 111 COUNTRIES
16 YEARS, 715 OPEN SOURCE ORGANIZATIONS

38,000,000+ LINES OF CODE

Google Summer of Code is a global program focused on bringing more student developers into open source software development. Students work with an open source organization on a 10 week programming project during their break from school.

Organizations
Apply

Deadline February 19, 2021 at 14:00

Open source organizations that would like to participate as a mentor organization this year can apply.

What to do if LF AI and Data wants to do this

1. Form a working group to manage mentorships
2. Get going on the platform
 - › Apply to GSoC as an organization (if this path is of interest)
 - › Add projects to LFX Mentorship that want to do mentorships (if this path is of interest).
3. Start a project ideas page where projects can list mentorship project ideas or link to issue list of mentorship ideas
 - › Example:
<https://github.com/cncf/mentoring/blob/master/summerofcode/2020.md>
4. Be ready for inbound interest!
5. Select final mentorships and mentees
